Notification of Acquisition

Dear Sir or Madam

BD (Becton, Dickinson and Company) hereby provides notice that it has acquired Edwards Lifesciences's Critical Care business unit, now known as BD Advanced Patient Monitoring (APM).

Following successful integration and readiness validation, effective 2 November 2026, BD will progressively assume responsibility for certain BD APM-related supply chain activities, including imports and exports, in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, and required regulatory approvals in each jurisdiction.

During the transition period, BD APM products may continue to be manufactured, labeled, or marketed under Edwards Lifesciences' branding while related registrations, licenses, and other regulatory authorizations are being transferred or updated. Accordingly, the identity of the applicable legal entity may vary as between BD and Edwards Lifesciences depending on the jurisdiction and stage of transition.

BD is committed to conducting its import and export activities in compliance with applicable requirements. This notification is provided for general informational purposes only. Please contact BD should you require additional information regarding a specific product or shipment.

Sincerely,

Geraldine Lim
